

Emma, Sofia, and Lily bounced excitedly in the back seat of their parents' car as they drove down the long, dusty road leading to Aunt Martha and Uncle Joe's farm. Eight-year-old Emma pressed her nose against the window, watching the green fields roll by. "Look!" she exclaimed, pointing to a red barn in the distance. "That must be it!"

